

Are you between 18-25 years old, and motivated to advance the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs)? Would you like to gain knowledge about the 2030 Agenda and project management skills, and then implement your own project with the team of your choice?

Apply now for Under the Starry Sky - Youth Action for SDGs!

---

This nine-month program provides a unique opportunity for young people to receive in-depth training on the SDGs and project management before implementing their own project, with WFUNA's supervision and guidance. The program will culminate in a multi-day ship expedition in Norway in September 2023, where participants will have the chance to showcase their projects to local businesses and youth.

The program is free of charge, and all costs (including travel, accommodation, and food) are fully covered.

Applications are open to Norwegian and international youth aged 18-25, and must be made in groups of four by December 31, 2022.

To learn more about this unique program and apply, please click here.